Elements has become a "hidden gem" of Photoshop and has been superseded by Photoshop Lightroom. You'll hear Lightroom referenced in almost all of the tutorials and articles we write on this site. It's also the first Photoshop or Photoshop Elements screencast series we've created. We can't thank all of you enough for your enthusiastic support and your posts in our new Reddit community. We'll show you many of your favorite and sometimes forgotten features of Elements here, plus we'll share our thoughts on the "beta" released in June. We have tons of Photoshop topics for you, so let's get started. 1. Getting started in Elements You'll want to check out our Getting Started in Photoshop Elements article before you even think about opening a file in Elements. This is a basic introduction to the basics of Elements, including getting a Document Open dialog box and opening a new file. It's a lot easier to understand and use Photoshop elements if you know the basics of editing graphics. If you can make your own layered PSD's, then you're in a better position to know what you're doing. Check out the How to Create a Photo Collage tutorial to create this nice looking collage. After you've installed Photoshop Elements, the Getting Started in Photoshop Elements article is a good place to start any new project. You should also check out these tutorials: • Understanding the

Q: Is there a way to schedule the execution of a task in Notifications in Azure Devops? I have created a task which only should be run in a particular time. This is the time when i want to run the task. When I try to configure the task in VSTS for this, i cant do that. Even when I try to configure the priority and state for the task, I cannot change it to "scheduled" because then, it can only execute within a certain time. Is there any way to schedule the execution of this task? A: Yes, the Task Scheduling extension can do that for you. I'm using it on a multi-stage pipeline for the first time. I'd say it will work for you as well. Q: How to declare a namespace in c++? I want to name the namespace "example" and I have tried the following. #include namespace example { int x = 6; int y = 10; } using namespace example; int main() { std::cout
