Installation and Evaluation of the iNEMIS Educational System (iNEMIS) In order to further evaluate the iNEMIS educational system, a study was conducted to evaluate the satisfaction of students and their families who completed the educational system. A study was conducted in accordance with the objective of the research and in agreement with the general conditions for conducting a research project (resolution 5512). The study obtained the approval of the Ethics Committee on Research Involving Humans of the Federal University of Piau  (Approval No. 0222.2013.CEP). In order to perform the study, a formal invitation was sent by email to the parents of schoolchildren attending the fifth and eighth grade of the Sedlar and Lourdes Junior High School in the city of Teresina, Piau , Brazil, which is a public school classified as a level three school by the Brazilian Ministry of Education. The invitation stressed the importance of the study and invited the family to give their written informed consent to participate in the study and to answer a series of questions. The sample was composed of the families of schoolchildren that completed the educational system and who signed the consent form, and constituted the population. The sample consisted of 12 students who participated in a survey to rate their satisfaction with the project, as well as their evaluation of its usefulness, the contents, the teaching methods, the teachers and their knowledge of teaching methods. The sample was composed of six families of each schoolchild and was stratified by sex. The latter was chosen based on previous studies (de Luca et al., 2002; Pindar et al., 2005; Schofield et al., 2006) that had used it as an independent variable. A descriptive cross-sectional study with an intervention design was performed. For that, a questionnaire was applied using a structured interview to each family, the answers being coded on a four-point Likert scale in accordance with the degree of agreement (from 1- totally disagree to 4- totally agree) with the factors and constructs of the program evaluated. The following variables were analyzed: Â· The degree of agreement with the project assessed by the family members: usefulness, contents, methods, teachers and their knowledge
